Truckers blast plan on radar detectors

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Some truck drivers see a proposed radar-detector ban as further evidence that Illinois is antagonistic toward them. They are already restricted by restrictive rules and efforts to collect more state revenue from the trucking industry.

The truckers responded to questions Tuesday at Smithway Motor Express in Granite City after Secretary of State George Ryan on Monday urged an end to radar detectors in trucks.

Truck driver Roger Thaurmund said, "This is our livelihood and it isn't the first time the state has done something like this." He cited the miles per hour speed limit for trucks in Illinois which he said is the only state in this region that does not have 60 or 65 mph laws outside of cities.

"We travel 10 times as much per day as the average person, so making us an easier target. On average, truckers are not breaking the speeding laws."

"All it's really going to do is give the state a little extra money. It's not going to make the roads any safer," Thaurmund said.

Secretary of State Ryan said this week he will lobby for a "fuzz buster" bill that will be introduced this spring. A similar bill failed last year.

The bill would ban the radar detectors and enact a minimum fine of $50 for a first offense and $250 for subsequent offenses. Authorities making the arrest would seize the detector as evidence.

Interstate truckers passing through Illinois would be required to disconnect detectors and put them in a locked compartment outside the cab.

The same bill also would ban a radar detector to elude police radar and break speeding laws," Ryan said.

"Research shows that truck drivers are far more likely than other motorists to use detectors," he said.

Truck owner/operator John Coffee agreed with Thaurmund that such a ban

Black history to be taught

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Students will have an opportunity to study Black history in-depth next year with the introduction of a new course to the curriculum of Venice High School.

The Venice Board of Education voted last week to approve adding the class, following a presentation by high school social studies teacher Kevin Baker.

Black history will be covered from Africa to the present time in the United States. The elective course will be offered to upperclassmen.

"We have not decided on the format as of yet, but it will probably be offered for a half-year, with sociology one semester followed by a smooth transition to Black history," Baker said.

Students have been experiencing a rough transition from sociology to economics.

"This will offer a much smoother transition."

Superintendent of Schools John Rush is optimistic.

Schools won't go on plant tour in Nevada

By Bob Slatte
Staff writer

Granite City School District 9 will not send a representative to a hazardous-wastewater treatment plant in Nevada to see first-hand how the facility operates.

The district had been invited to visit the Eticam plant in Fernley, Nev., after expressing its concern regarding the safety of a proposed similar facility in Granite City near Prather Elementary School.

The school district representative would have traveled with a group of other Granite City officials and interested parties April 8-10 to observe the operation of the Nevada plant and meet with Eticam officials, Fernley residents and environmental officials.

Democrats let press in meeting

Democratic precinct committeemen in Madison County broke with tradition Monday night, allowing reporters — reporters into their county convention.

But that may have been the only surprise of the evening, as Democrats and Republicans each re-elected their county chairman.

As expected, Democrats voted Madison Mayor John Bellcoff another term as chairman while, across the lobby of the County Convention Center, Republicans re-elected Edward Ragsdale of Godfrey. Neither was opposed.

For years, reporters have been barred from the Democrats' convention while Republicans have been allowed to keep their doors always open.

Ragsdale and other GOP leaders have traditionally jabbed the Democrats for the closed-door meetings, often wondering aloud what the opposition party had to hide.

Ragsdale was at it again Monday night.

"We have always admitted the press. That is not the case now. The hall is set back from learning the Democrats had opened their convention.

A resolution to open the convention Monday was supported by Bellcoff and Wood River Township Democratic Chairman George Donohoo.

Bellcoff reappointed Donohoo as the party's executive vice chairman.

Vice chairmen elected by the Democrats were Ed Voumard Sr. of Alton, Robert Stille of Edwardsville and Frank Laub of Granite City.

Voumard and Laub were unopposed, while Stille became a chairman-elect. Ronald "Rink" Lucas of Maryville.

Other Democratic officers are: Rose Marie Chadwick of Collinsville, secretary; James Noeth of Granite City, treasurer; and James Augustine of Livingston and Robert Bell of Granite City, sergeants-at-arms.

Republican vice chairmen are Ron Stephens of Troy, Neal Mifford of Alton, Charlotte Longwisch of East Alton, Kurt

911 start delayed

until end of month

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

The Madison County 911 Emergency Telephone System has reached the "Murphy's Law" stage, delaying the system's start-up from the beginning to the end of April.

Granite City and Edwardsville are in the forefront of efforts to complete the preparations.

"If something can happen, it will happen now," Dave Whipple, 911 coordinator, said this week.

Whipple said Illinois Bell is resolving errors now by checking its lists of telephone numbers and addresses against those of the county.

The error rate in the Granite City exchanges is currently 1.4 percent, slightly higher than the 1.2 percent the Illinois Commerce Commission requires the system to have.

"Out of 28,000 (phone numbers) that's not very many," Whipple said of the Granite City errors.

Collinsville-area exchanges were loaded with the St. Clair County 911 system and already met ICC requirements, while Alton exchanges are being corrected now, Whipple said.

"But the big holdup is Edwardsville," said Whipple.

Whipple said he hopes Edwardsville-area exchanges will be completed by April 10. Edwardsville has taken longer, he said, because it needed to move the more than 10,000 rural addresses that were converted to street addresses for the 911 system.

Another delay was due to the incompatibility of the existing phone equipment with the 911 system at two of the county's Public Service Answering Points.

The 911 system was originally to have started operating in December, but officials later delayed the timing until March.

"I realize we're playing catch-up right now and that everyone's anxious to get the system up and running," Whipple said. "But what's important is how perfect the system is — not how soon it's done."

No basis found for AIDS rumor

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

There appears to be no foundation for a lingering "AIDS at Granite City High School" rumor, according to school officials.

Mark Eavenson, president of the District 9 school board, said the rumors apparently started with a student and he overheard a rumor saying the Red Cross had found that blood from 15 or 16 kids was HIV positive" in the blood collected at a recent blood drive at the school.

David Painter, high school principal, said that when he heard the rumors wouldn't go away, he called Red Cross officials.

City retirees' health costs may double

By Bob Slatte
Staff writer

The cost to 57 retired participants in the Granite City employee health plan may soon double.

Responding to increased claims and depletion of the fund's cash reserve, the City Council's Insurance Committee will recommend that participants contribute to the plan increase as of May 1.

Participants include 219 active city employees and 57 retired city employees or family members participating in the plan.

Current city employees' contributions to the plan come directly from the general fund or Sewage Treatment Plant Fund as part of their regular benefit package.

But retirees and their dependents continue in the plan after their employment ends by electing to contribute a premium.

City Comptroller K.P. MacTaggart said that because benefits are earned under a pension contract, the union must agree before benefits can be reduced.

bution of $94.67.

There are 17 retirees currently paying for single coverage.

Forty former employees utilizing the family plan to cover about 90 individuals would be asked to pay $88.69 per month under MacTaggart's recommendation, up from $24.14.

The city's health plan is self-funded; all claims and administrative costs are paid directly from the fund.

"We can either increase premiums or reduce benefits," MacTaggart said. But because benefits are earned under a pension contract, the union must agree before benefits can be reduced.

History inseparable, leaders say

The institution of a Black history course at Venice High School in 1992-93 has merit, area leaders believe.

But they said there also is a need to more fully include African-Americans' contributions in the teaching of American history.

The new class will provide more facts on Black history than is covered in the prerequisite African history courses at Venice High.

"The (elective) class is certainly a good idea," local NAACP leader Harold Wilson said. "It's well-timed, especially in light of the teaching of Christopher Columbus.

"I have no problem with separating it to offer more information. But we need to put what is fair and equal into the required American history course for all students."

Many of the great contributions by Blacks often are left out of American history, he said.

"We should never forget the history of our country," Wilson said. "But a lot of things about the Black contribution to our country are omitted. We should have some way to inject Black history into American history."

The way our school curriculum is set up is a little about Black history and a little about African history," Wilson said. "It's not black or white history; it's American history," Bennett said.

United States history needs to include much more than just the knowledge of Christopher Columbus discovering America, he said.

"There is a need for both American and Black history at the high school," Wilson said.

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols agreed.

"I don't want to sit here and tell the school board how to manage their curriculum, but I don't think they should be separated," Echols said.

"There was such a large contribution from Blacks in American History. It's part of it."

Venice Police Chief James Bennett welcomes the expanded instruction and thinks the elements of history are interwoven and inseparable.

"We did not contribute separately from white society, so I see no reason to separate it now. It's not black or white history; it's American history," Bennett said.

"I'm concerned with America, not Africa. The students should know about all of the historical figures, no matter what their color."

est in the class might force officials to turn some students away.

"Our student population is about 85 percent African-American," he said. "So the need for that interest in the elective course are there."

The course will bring African-American history into the mainstream of American history, Baker said, including the 1950s, '60s and '70s.

"You can, and I do, tie a great deal of Black history into American history now," Baker said.

"But with the high population of African-American students in the school, I feel it is disservice to not offer them an opportunity for more in-depth study."

Plan to aid schools is threatened

Two lawmakers will push legislation to catch up on $176 million in school aid payments, despite the governor's promised veto.

The state would borrow the money under the plan proposed Monday by Assistant Senate Majority Leader Jerome Joyce, D-Bedford, and Rep. Phil Novak, D-Kankakee.

Payments were delayed a month last year and the districts have stayed behind. Districts are borrowing to pay bills.

Gov. Jim Edgar said he would veto the legislation unless superintendents are using the delayed payment to justify other factors affecting their budgets. "There really is no problem," the governor said.

But Joyce maintains there are plenty of reasons to pass the legislation.

"Day after day, there are stories in the media regarding budget cuts, teacher layoffs, grant eliminations," Joyce said. "While the loss of the second state aid payment ... did not cause this, it is definitely a contributing factor."

Joyce said the state should take out the loans, rather than the schools, because the state can get lower interest rates.

"Why should schools have to make high interest payments on money that is rightly theirs?" If local school districts can engage in further borrowing, why "can't the state?" Joyce said.

To help soothe the state's fiscal problems, Edgar and lawmakers decided in 1991 to withhold one June state aid payment until July, which is in the next fiscal year. That means districts will get 11 monthly payments this year (1991-92).

The Chicago school district is not affected by the delay because its fiscal year ends in August.

Rather than borrow more, Edgar said he favors financing interest payments faced by some schools that had to take out loans to finish the school year.

Edgar proposed financing interest payments last session, but the issue didn't reach a vote in the General Assembly.

Off to Florida GCHS band in Music Festival

The GCHS band with the pom pom, flag and rifle units boarded three buses for the trip. The students will compete against about 20 other U.S. high school bands in the All-American Music Festival on Saturday at University High School in Orlando.

The students raised approximately $40,000 through sales of various items to finance their participation in the festival.

Students had hoped to perform at the Gator Bowl in Florida in late December 1991 but could not raise enough money in time for the trip.

The students will vie in concert, jazz, parade and field competition before returning Sunday.

Group launches drive for universal health care in state

The saving to be realized is the elimination of the middle man. It would eliminate the insurance companies handling the money.

— David Rathke

Backers of a universal health care program are seeking support for a statewide fight they say can help heal the nation's ailing health system.

If passed, a government-insured health care system would provide coverage to about 1.8 million Illinois residents who now have no way to pay medical bills, said David Rathke of the Illinois Education Association, which supports the measure.

"The saving to be realized is the elimination of the middle man," he said. "It would eliminate the insurance companies handling the money."

The Campaign for Better Health Care officially started Monday with press conferences in six cities statewide, including Edgewaterville.

More than 200 local and statewide organizations are pushing to implement a universal plan in Illinois.

"Right now we're wasting our money on health care," Rathke said.

Growing problems have been caused by skyrocketing medical insurance costs. An estimated 30 million Americans are uninsured and many more are underinsured.

The universal health plan is much like the tax-supported government-run national health system in Canada, where everyone has the same access to health care and choice of doctors without having to pay deductibles or insurance premiums or cash payments.

The money would come mainly from federal and state money already spent on Medicare and from replacement of employer health plans with a less expensive payroll tax.

Backers said the government could run the universal health plan better and more efficiently than the insurance industry.

Opponents, including the American Medical Association and private insurance companies, contend letting the government set fees and control the pursestrings would create more problems than it would solve.

In Canada, waiting lists for tests and procedures are said to be long, and sometimes more serious problems are put on hold when allotted money is spent.

Still, proponents said, they think a universal plan would better serve the public.

"I'm here because I see a tremendous need for universal health care," Jenece Brown, a member of the IEA board of directors, said during the conference in Edgewaterville.

"We do back this because health care has become a major issue at the bargaining table."

Jim Carroll, a spokesman for the campaign, said the idea of doctors back a universal health care plan because more patients could be treated.

"The whole idea of medicine is serving people," he said. "Many doctors are for it."

Edgar to seek cure for medical bill ills

House majority leader said the intention to seek the spending authority was a surprise.

"I have no idea where he's getting this money," said McPike, who had earlier said the legislature probably would not add the spending authority before the end of the fiscal year.

The legislators returned to Springfield on Monday.

"This situation has been embarrassing for all of us," Edgar said Monday. State employees have been getting funded by collection agencies and are being paid by the medical providers because the state ran out of money to cover the benefits.

Rep. Jim McPike of Alton,

Free publicity not the key to cleaner state highways

Adopt a child? Of course. Adopt a pet? Many do it. But adopt a highway? It may sound weird, but it's a program that's been implemented in 45 states, and could possibly soon be a reality in Illinois.

The program gets businesses, individuals and organizations to select stretches of roads and keep them presentable by periodically picking up litter and trash. In return, they get their names on a sign along the road.

At this point, the Illinois Department of Transportation is giving serious consideration to instituting the program. IDOT is solely responsible for keeping 18,000 miles of roadway clear of trash.

To operate the program statewide, IDOT spokesman Richard Adorjan estimates it would cost between $300,000 and $350,000 annually for safety classes and materials. That seems like a small investment considering the state now spends about $6.5 million a year for litter pickup.

Adorjan says Adopt-a-Highway would not reduce that figure "substantially" because IDOT would still need all of its maintenance workers. But if the program operates effectively, there is no reason why IDOT could not reduce the number of its employees involved in that work.

Whatever could be saved, even if it is not "substantial," would help IDOT's budget at a time when state finances are tight.

We urge the department to initiate the program and let Illinois citizens play a hands-on role in keeping our roadways litter-free.

In the meantime, there are better programs. Programs that do the cleanup work without the state-sponsored incentive of free highway advertising. Groups of people can get together because they are interested in improving the looks of their community and not so interested in the credit they get for doing so.

An outstanding example is the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce's Stash Trash drive that will have representatives from several local groups out along area highways on April 11 picking up trash in the interest of a better-looking community and not the free publicity.

Any group interested in the environment is more than welcome to volunteer time, either through the chamber's drive or by calling IDOT and requesting information and guidance from the state on how to improve the area where they live.

Cancellation of Easter egg hunt on Arch grounds due to parents' unruly behavior

(Carol Clarkin's opinion column appears regularly in the Edwardsville Journal.)

Fred Astaire was not a man noted for "quotable quotes," possibly because he was — or seemed to be — an intensely private man off-stage.

For that reason alone, I was surprised the other day to read a brief remark attributed to the great dancer.

"The hardest job kids face today is learning good manners without seeing any," Astaire is credited with remarking.

The quote seems to reflect our image of Astaire, the Nebraska boy who grew up to epitomize the manners of a well-bred sophisticate.

But then, Astaire, who was born about the turn of the century, was reared in an age in which children were taught good manners, when parents considered proper social behavior important, and served as models to their offspring.

The truth of the matter is that home to me particularly since I just the previous week learned that the annual Easter egg hunt on the St. Louis riverfront has been canceled this year — canceled because of the behavior during the last two egg hunts of what the news story described as "unruly parents."

Not only the cancellation, the committee in charge of the event described last year's egg hunt on the Gateway Arch grounds as total bedlam.

Parents (again, not kids) so eager to get a head start on others, in the search for 20,000 eggs, were likened to the Soopers of the Old Spice laundry detergent.

The Soopers, in their eagerness as homesteaders to get the choice sites, came out of the starting gate before the land was officially available.

The "sooner" parents last year reportedly jumped the gun, knocking down other parents and children, tearing up the grounds and causing such a ruckus that the scene must have somewhat resembled the Little Big Horn.

Instead of a holiday event for happy youngsters, the Arch grounds were filled with tearful, scared small fry. And for what? A few hard-boiled eggs?

The spirit of competition is fine and dandy, but I've come to believe by now that Americans, we too often overdo it.

The ruined egg-hunt is hit one example.

I've seen behavior at Little League games that would curl your hair — and it hasn't been the part of the players.

The inventive, verbal abuse and insults were aimed at officials and players by adults, not kids.

At the end of things, Mom and Dad didn't do the rush onto the playing field. This, at a program the aim of which was to teach sportsmanship.

And though I hate to say it, Mom was usually worse than Dad in terms of behavior.

It's a shame that a lot more credence in Vince Lombardi's "winning is everything" motto than in the injunction that "it isn't if you win or lose, it's how you play the game."

Experts in the problems of today's youth too often, it seems to me, blame those problems on everything from overexposed television watching (too much of it, too violent programs) to "latchkey" households, but evade blaming the parents themselves.

They don't want to imply that these aren't problems in themselves — they are.

But even the experts admit that, ultimately, parents are THE important role models. From inaction on the part of parents to strict rules and standards, or should.

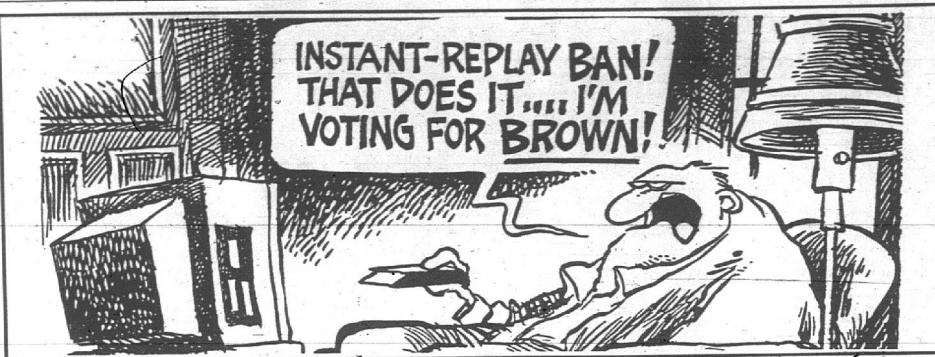

And their own behavior, manners, rules and ethics conform to what they're teaching their kids. Or should.

Do as I say, not as I do, just won't go it.

Thankfully, there are a few parents who realize those harsh truths and meet their children and you know it.

Last week, cleaning out closets preparatory to a move in residence, I found a couple of stuffed animals for which I won't have room, and thought of my neighbor, whose toddler daughter was visiting him. My rock was answered by the young man and the little girl who, when I asked if she'd like a polar bear and a penguin, whispered, "Oh, yes, yes! Thank you, thank you!" With no prompting from her father.

As the twig is bent, I guess.

Computers can bring educational breakthrough

The following is by Dr. Richard L. Lesser, president, U.S. Chamber of Commerce, 100 years before the actual event, visionaries predicted men would walk on the moon.

What they did not foresee was that ordinary people would watch the dramatic event unfold in the comfort of their living rooms.

The moon shot was glorious, but the real miracle was the technology that made it possible.

We now have an opportunity to use technology for an even more exciting adventure, one that will empower our young people to lead the world into the 21st century.

They say our schools are failing, but that is what is wrong. Our schools are as good as ever.

The problem is that the world has changed, and merely "good" isn't good enough anymore. We need great schools.

Our educators are doing their best, but they are trying to serve 21st-century students with 20th-century methods: blackboards, chalk, pencils and, too often, outdated textbooks.

It is no wonder so many kids tune out.

But we can leapfrog beyond all this.

By the end of this decade, we can equip all 50 million students in this country with high-performance computers — American-made — connected to a high-performance network through which flows information on every subject.

Such a system would enable one teacher to provide individual instruction for every student.

Better still, when students aren't in school, other community forces could use the system, such as military reserve units, adult education programs, social service groups.

Also, businesses could use it for worker training. Thousands of local chambers of commerce stand ready to help launch such a system.

Shared usage will render this national information utility self-financing and affordable. By the year 2010, this system will enable everyone — urban, rich and poor, urban and rural, young and old — with fingertip command of the entire range of human knowledge.

The Japanese have committed $20 billion to a lesser vision. By the year 2015, they will link every school, business and home in Japan with a high-speed, fiber optic network.

The economic implications are staggering. But our vision is better, and will enable us to leapfrog ahead of them in less time and with less money.

In this new world, change comes with dizzying speed. We must all learn to reinvent ourselves daily.

"Where there is no vision," the prophet Isaiah said, "the people perish." He said also that "a little child shall lead them."

We likewise can embrace a vision for the future and send our children ahead of us.

We have the technology, the resources and the vision. Let's blast the younger generation off into an intellectual Disney land — and soar with them to the stars.

Protestant group moving, growing

TO THE EDITOR:

On Thursday, Jan. 30, the Protestant Welfare board voted unanimously to take action in purchase of the property of 1818 Cleveland Boulevard.

These facilities will permit us to distribute the Come Share food in our own building, and hold the Back-To-School Drive, Share, on July 1 in July. And it will give us space to store furniture to give to fire victims and other needy families.

Think with us for a moment about two of the words in the phrase, "Getting Real Can Be Risky." The definition of "real" is genuine, or in earnest.

"Risky" is to venture upon.

Acquiring larger facilities calls for more teamwork. Partners to give of their time to assist doing office work. Partners to assist in the food pantry. Partners to assist in the Clothing Center.

When Protestant Welfare moves from 2052 Edison, it will bring to a close 33 years of our 39 years of service at this address.

"Real" that we have grown out of our present facilities. For 33 years, its walls have housed our services and helped many people.

When we leave, it will be like saying "thank" to a friend.

"Risky" — to venture upon — new partners in meeting new financial requirements — new partners venturing into service of talent, time, and treasure for the Protestant Welfare Association.

Yes, getting real can be risky. However, the will of God will never lead us to venture the grace of God cannot keep us.

Call the Protestant Welfare office if you can help.

Don't rely on psychic advice

TO THE EDITOR:

Is just me or has anyone else noticed the recent barrage of "psychic advice" advertisements on local TV?

This type of mumbo jumbo used to be reserved for the carnival or the penny weight machine — "you weigh 250 pounds and should by all means avoid the good humor man."

The sad part about this is "tell me what I need to hear for a fee" people is that so many are taking them seriously. Set adrift, without foundation, we turn anywhere and everywhere in order to get some direction — Somebody please tell me what to do."

We cry about the cost of health care. We grumble about the economy, crime, politics. We put our trust in politicians and hope they know what they're doing. We listen to "celebrities" and sports stars. But maybe we should ask somebody who's been there.

Perhaps we can find a grandma or grandpa who knows what it's like to live through a "real" depression. Someone who knows what it means to do without and yet be happy. Someone who lived through a time of global war with its sacrifices and tears. Someone who lived in a time when you dreaded the sickness and death of a loved one.

Perhaps if we could find any, they would tell us where to look. Where to find the strength, the hope, the love.

Perhaps they'd tell us of the importance of family, community, and a firm faith in God.

Perhaps they'd tell us that "commitment, responsibility, accountability, piety, morality, fidelity, sacrifice and devotion" aren't dirty words.

Yes, perhaps they would tell us. And perhaps they will, when our money runs out.

But the real we can call "psychic Sue." She can something we want to hear, but it may cost us our very lives.

Good care given

TO THE EDITOR:

I want to publicly thank Dr. Tom Martin for taking my grandchild, Al Lewis, out on a sudden acquisition and working with him to find out what was wrong with him.

Thanks also to Dr. Laine, who operated on my arm and the specialist he had to pull him through. I also thank all the workers on the fourth floor of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, who worked hard to take care of him.

Just as there are all kinds of people who don't want a person moving into their neighborhood because it might lower their property value. The very person you don't want as a neighbor might be the person who will work for your life when you lay sick and dying in the hospital.

Thanks again to all the workers on the fourth floor who made Terry Becker comfortable in the hospital. I am just a concerned grandma.

People tolerate inept governing

TO THE EDITOR:

America's economy is in shambles, creating joblessness and homelessness.

The savings-and-loan fiasco is going to cost each taxpayer thousands of dollars. Nobody has gone to jail.

We have a military system that pays $900 for toilet seat covers and $79 for a pair of wire pliers.

With all of these problems and happenings, the only thing the citizenry can find to become upset about is congressmen writing bad checks.

Wasn't it H.L. Mencken that said the American electorate was a babbocracy (people easily fooled)?

Two-legged Dog still gets around despite loss of rear legs

Two legs may be enough for a dog named Bob.

"He's learned to pull himself through things just like his master," said James Boddy, custodian for an animal up to his shins of whiskers.

"But you still want to go round 'em up, don't you, Bob?" he said, watching the Australian shepherd's ears stand at attention.

At Boddy's words, all 30 pounds of blond fur wiggled feet first off the couch and lifted its legless backside across the rug. The dog's front balance as he walked to Boddy's outstretched fingertips.

"They're bred to herd sheep, you know," Boddy explained.

"This little doggy has got a habit for you. Just tell him to watch 'em," he said, bringing the dog's ears back up to attention.

Before Bob lost his hind legs to a pair of New Year's Day romps near Granite City, the 3-year-old dog hopped freight trains with his master and rode up front on a run on the motorcycle gang's bank.

The two have bummed together on the open road from Utah to Washington to Wyoming. They've shared everything except hobo coffee Bob refuses to drink.

"It was a free and easy way to go," Boddy said.

"Bob likes the wind in his face. He still thinks the front seat he once sat in belongs to him," the 27-year-old former tree trimmer said.

"Yo, Bob, you wanna go get them doggies, don't you, boy?" Rawhide, let's go," he said, imitating the dog's barking as the eyes brighten.

The last time they went chasing together, Bob was running alongside the car for exercise until he caught a rabbit and took off across the hill.

Instead of a bunny, Bob ran right into a downed power-line.

"All of a sudden, I saw a flash of light and a welder going off," Boddy said.

He called out, but Bob never came running.

"I found him on the ground with fire all over around him on the floor," he said.

Boddy pulled the animal out, but found no heartbeat and no breathing.

"No, please God, don't let him go," Boddy prayed.

Before he stopped to think,

Boddy opened the dog's mouth and began breathing air into the muzzle.

"I squirmed between his ribs and responded," Boddy said.

"It took a minute or so, but that little dog came back in a big way — like a spirit."

Bob began coughing black smoke, so Boddy put him in the front seat and headed for a veterinarian. The only one he found on the holiday was Dr. Larry Davis, who decided to train Bob to the extreme at the Veterinary Training Center at the University of Illinois.

"My dad gave me enough money to get to Champaign," Boddy said.

Boddy stayed several months while doctors removed two back legs and began healing burns across his face and nose and down his shoulders to his feet.

The dog's plight brought 7,000 dollars in donations and an outpouring of good wishes from little children to soft-hearted grandmas. Sixth graders at Nell Nelson School in Edwardsville wrote Bob letters.

"He got some healing to do, but he's really a remarkable little dog. A lot of people are behind him and have helped him out," Boddy said.

The animal gets a daily change of bandages and a dose of antibiotic saline in one eye that no longer closes.

Doctors at the U of I fashioned a cart with two wheels to keep Bob going, but Boddy wants to remodel it to keep the harness off his shoulders until they're completely healed.

"I don't want anything to hurt him," Boddy said.

When it's time to go out, Boddy loops a towel under the dog's hindquarters to help Bob down the steps. The little dog now lives in Granite City.

"We don't go any place Bob doesn't want to go," he said.

The master runs along at an even pace until the dog finds a liked tree to urinate on.

"He used to jump off the train to go. As soon as the train started, he'd be back. I had a special harness on him to reach down and pull him in," Boddy said.

Man and dog were just learning to run sheep in Utah and Washington.

"You have to run slow because the dog will over heat from the heat. Especially in the summertime," Boddy said.

"He didn't learn all of it, but he learned enough to know what to do," Boddy said.

Boddy picked up Bob as a pup on an Indian reservation in Yakima, Wash. The children were beating on him, and Boddy couldn't stand it.

"He was OK, Daddy, you showed up. Daddy, daddy, daddy, save me," Boddy teased, faking a choke hold the dog returned by baring his teeth over a tennis ball.

"Once you hub give me some kisses. I'm going to pull your string," he said, rolling across the couch until the dog licked his master's chin.

Boddy was surprised so many people cared about Bob, and he wants the leftover money to go to other dogs whose owners can't afford to help.

"I'll take him back to fix the eye, but nothing will help the scars from the burn. Bob was such a beautiful dog," he said.

The power company paid $1,000 for his operation, but Boddy thinks his dog is worth more than money.

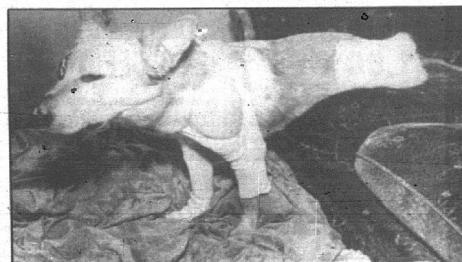

"If he wasn't worth anything, why did so many people send money and want to help?" he asked.

Bob will never again be able to stand up and dance on his hind legs for food or catch a Frisbee seven feet in the air, but he's coming back, Boddy promised.

"I've had a lot of dogs, but never one this smart or this determined," he said.

"And if he got any happier, he'd be in heaven."

Whoever means YOU can pray and get results. Jesus said you could. And the more critical your situation, the more amazing the answers to your prayers.

Whatever means exactly that! God can do anything. He can solve your problems. He can heal your body. He can forgive your sins! On earth as it goes. Whatever need you have...

Why not pray today? Find yourself a quiet place. Bow your head and pray out loud. Talk to God just as you would a friend.

'Noises Off' plays better on stageBy Harry Hamm Correspondent

If you've seen the smash British stage farce from 1983 called "Noises Off," which has played in St. Louis twice, director Peter Bogdanovich's film adaptation will most likely be agreeable to you.

However, the remoteness of film takes something away from this movie version, even in the first act. The British comedy is lead by Michael Caine. Caines gives an energetic performance that sets the breakneck tone for this racetrack motion picture.

"Nothing On" is set within a play about the rehearsal and performances of a comedy stage presentation called "Nothing On." In the film edition, Caine plays the director. We first meet him as he prepares the company on its final work day before a preview opening on the road.

The cast hopes to tour the show before an opening on Broadway in a few months.

Michael Cain is the linchpin of this film; relentlessly driving its sometimes faltering comedy momentum.

Rated PG-13 (adult romantic references and language). Running time: 104 minutes.

Lady Warriors chill McCluer 9-0 in opener

Shawn Odom of the Lady Warriors goes on the attack during Tuesday's game at Memorial Stadium.

The girls soccer season is supposed to start in the brisk winds of late spring and end in the heat of early summer. The Man Upstairs almost forgot that Tuesday.

Almost. About 15 minutes before the Lady Warriors kicked off against McCluer in the season opener, a cold front swept in dropping the temperature to 15 degrees after 45 minutes, with a stiff wind blowing from the north. The Comets felt the chill as Granite City rolled to an easy 9-0 win.

Senior Amanda Witter picked up where she left off last year with the three-goal hat trick. Junior goalie Stephanie Kult took advantage of the wind with three long punts which led to goals. Kult was assisted with the assist two of them.

"That's good anticipation on the girls' part," said coach Gen Baker. "They went with the wind, and were in the right spots."

Junior Ann Logan and sophomore Kami Kessel each added a goal and an assist as the Lady Warriors outshot McCluer 11-4.

Their goalie Bridget Cook was very sharp again as last year and did some good things again here," said Baker. "It could have been even more than nine. I thought Michael had improved quite a bit last season, but they are still very young."

The Lady Warriors aren't exactly old. With goalie Leslie Stavely sidelined with a knee injury, Granite City has only two seniors (Witter and Gen Baker). Both were able to use all six available players Tuesday. That included eight freshmen and five sophomores.

"None of them really surprised me," Baker said. "All of the young players have looked good in practice. Two of the prettiest goals of the night came from freshmen."

Holly Farnsworth got the first goal of her life. It should be the first of many in her high school career. She took a throw-in from junior Michelle Know on the left wing, whirled and fired a beautiful left-footer to the far corner from 30 yards out against the wind. Freshman Kami Kessel showed some strong shot off a pass from junior JoAnn Gray in the final minute of the third quarter to make it 5-0.

shutout and 2 assists

Kessel had opened the scoring at 3:40 of the first quarter on a give-and-go with Logan on left wing. Logan scored at 27:20 as she took Kult's punt at the top of the McCluer penalty area and scored from the right side. Junior Beth Rappaport made it 3-0 at 35:18 as her corner kick struck directly in.

the final seconds of the third quarter, then Witter scored two more goals in the fourth quarter thanks to Kult's punts. Kessel headed one on to Witter, then the senior captain picked up a punt directly three minutes later and booted a rocket just under the crossbar.

Kessel finished the scoring with seven minutes left on an unassisted goal.

"Amanda was dominating as usual and we got good team play in the backfield," said Baker. "And we didn't have any injuries which is good news for us anymore."

Freshman Christy Costello played much of the center forward position in relief of Kult. It was Kult's turn to play on the bench on such a cold night.

"When we were warming up the girls didn't like having their black shirts on," said Baker. "But I bet it was 30 degrees colder at the end of the game. We need a few good, sunny days to get some things done in practice."

Next up for the Lady Warriors is Wood River tonight, with JV action at 4:30 and the varsity game at 6 p.m. Next up is a visit to Collinsville on Tuesday. Witter, Rappaport and Tilt are the team captains. Sophomore Brooke Bjorkman, who broke her leg March 14, will get a smaller cast put on April 14, but she is still likely out for the season.

State slow-pitch tourney here in August

This year should be one of the more exciting ones in a long time for slow-pitch softball fans in the Granite City area.

The highlight will be Aug. 14-16 when the National Steel Regional and City hosts the 1992 Illinois State Men's AA Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament. Considered by many the premier softball tournament in the state, the selection will bring to Granite City for the first time the best men's slow-pitch teams in the state.

The host for this year's event is the Granite City Steel Softball Association. According to GCSSA president Mike Kmetz, this tournament should provide Tri-City retailers with a late summer weekend shot in the arm economically.

"The Men's Major generally has anywhere from 400 teams involved, with at least half of those teams coming from outside a 50-mile radius," Kmetz said.

Figuring that all teams have 15-20 players should mean 500 to 600 people coming counting families and spectators, spending their money here."

Besides the NSRF, teams will also play at the Madison Third Street Fair and the Belvidere Recreation director in Madison will coordinate activities there.

Ray Hoffman of the Granite City Park District has been designated ed tournament director and will oversee all the tourney operations.

Other tournaments on tap for the summer include the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame tournament on May 13; the Women's Firecracker Tournament on July 3-5; the Eagles state tournament July 10-12; and the Granite City Steel Tournament on Aug. 26-30.

The season at NSRF begins Friday, Aug. 14. For complete information on all league and tournament openings, call the NSRF hotline at 876-6371 or Kmetz at 876-6371.

Graham resigns as Cougar coach

Larry Graham announced his resignation Tuesday as the men's basketball coach.

Graham who coached the Cougars for eight years and formerly coached at Madison High School and the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, cited family reasons for personal reasons. The resignation is effective June 30.

"It was a great experience at SIUE," Graham said. "I just wanted to make a change. I'd like to stay in the area and coach, if I could do that."

Cindy Jones, director of inter-collegiate athletics, said she said the search has been accepted and a national search will be launched immediately for Graham's replacement. She said institutional hiring procedures will be followed and the position will be filled by summer.

Basketball scheduling for the 1992-93 season, although virtually completed, will be assumed in the interim by assistant athletic director Eric Breslin.

Last month, the university began an internal investigation into meat money allocations to SIUE basketball players for road trips. One player, sophomore guard Kevin Caldwell of Alton, openly questioned the distribution process.

The university audit continues. Jones said:

"It's not complete and I really

Larry Graham
... personal reasons

can't pinpoint when it will be finished," she said. "But I don't believe that's the reason he (Graham) resigned."

Graham said, "Honestly, that (investigation) had nothing to do with my resignation. I don't think I did anything wrong."

However, after the university's audit was over, the university's audit was over, the university stepped down. "Not at all," he said. "He resigned for personal reasons."

In eight seasons at SIUE, Graham was 147-84 (.637) and led the

The thoroughbreds are back. Place your bets.

Fairmount Park's thoroughbred sales and racing secretary Bob Pace has several reasons to be excited about it.

The season has been reduced from 167 days to 147. That, in addition to an improving economic picture, is likely to help maintain a firm grip on fans' interest, which lagged at the end of the recession-plagued 1991 season.

"I like the dates," said Pace.

"The season won't be dragged out. October and November were poor business nights last year."

Last year's thoroughbred season opened April 12 and continued through Dec. 1. This year's dates are April 3 through Oct. 3.

"I think everything is positive about the shorter season," Pace said. "We should be able to put a better product out there for the public, the better the horses we should have. Owners should be able to go out and spend money."

"I'm anxious. Hopefully, the economy is straightened out. I

Park district to be honored at banquet

The Granite City Park District will be honored at the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame banquet on Aug. 8.

Current members of the park district's board of commissioners and former officers, plus long-time executive director Harold Brown (now retired) will be present for the park district's work in promoting sports. The park district was organized in 1903.

The banquet will be held at St. Gregory's Armenian Church at 5 p.m. The 12 individuals being inducted into the Hall of Fame this year are Dr. David Dombek, Edward Cook, Keith Gehling, Don Goldschmidt, Brad Hiles, David Lindsay, Mike Marzouq, Scott McRae, Steve Pfeifer, Thomas Schooley, Bob Stegeman and Paul Thompson.

The two teams being inducted are the 1964-65 Granite City High School wrestling team, which finished second in the state title, and the unbeaten 1973 women's slow-pitch softball team sponsored and coached by the late Nick Petrillo.

Tickets for the dinner are $15, and tables of eight are also available. For tickets, call Hall of Fame curator Al Barnes at 452-0433.

Gardner waiting for neck injury to respond well

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

It was just a year ago that Yukeitha Gardner came sprinting onto the scene. But she's been slowed to a crawl so far this season.

The Madison High School junior established herself as an all-state sprinter last season. She capped off a sensational year by winning the state championship in the 100 and 200 meters and finishing second in the 200 — her only setback in 1991.

Another stellar season was on the horizon, but all that changed March 11. Gardner, a runner on a school bus, was involved in

(See GARDNER, Page 28)

His high school career might have ended when the Warriors were eliminated from the Mid-Southern Club Hockey Association playoffs in February, but Gardner is determined to dream of carrying the sport he loves at an advanced stage. That would either be college or Junior A hockey.

"I would like to play Division I someday at one of the big schools," said Weaver. "And I've received tons of mail from the MSCHA. Weaver is also alternate to the team as a sophomore in 1990."

Weaver knows the odds of a hockey player from the St. Louis area getting a Division I scholarship aren't that great. If he doesn't find the right college, he'll be a good enough player to make it in the minor pros.

Weaver's next on the schedule is the Chicago Showcases next week (April 8-12) in Skokie, Ill. For the second straight year Weaver has been chosen as a defenseman for Team St. Louis, which is made up of the best players from the MSCHA. Weaver was also an alternate to the team as a sophomore in 1990.

"We play in a tournament format against teams from California, Massachusetts and Colorado. There will probably be a lot of college and Junior A coaches there," he said.

Joining Weaver on the team from Granite City are junior defenseman Mike Jaro, and probably junior goaltender Brent Golden. Team St. Louis is coached by former Warrior coach Garry Henson.

"That was a good experience,"

Nathan Weaver
... with Junior Blues

Like any young hockey player trying to advance, Weaver spends almost as much time in skates as he does in street shoes. He started playing for the Granite City Steelers program.

In addition to four years of high school hockey, he played four years with the Crusaders AAA travel team in St. Louis and two years with the Federal District AAA team. Last year was his first as a member of the St. Louis Junior Blues of the North American Junior Hockey League.

"That was a good experience,"

Yukeitha Gardner has been relegated to street clothes instead of a track uniform so far in 1992.

think we'll have a good year." Track public relations director Mary Ozanic feels the same way.

"I think we're going to have a good season," she said. "The shorter season will have a lot to do with it."

"People tend to have more interest in the thoroughbreds. Plus, the season opens in the springtime when the weather is getting warmer. People are ready to get outside."

Live racing will be Wednesday through Saturday with a 7:30 p.m. post time. Tuesday afternoon racing also continues, with post time at 1:30. Tuesday admission is just $1, but that's not the best deal at Fairmount Park.

Wild Wednesdays also return, featuring free admission and two-for-one dinner specials in the Black Stallion Room and Top of the Turf Club. April's feature is prime rib.

Admission is the same as last season — $2 for the grandstand and $3 for the clubhouse. Clubhouse patrons can pay an extra $2 to admission into the Top of the Turf Club.

Fairmount will hold three special 1:30 p.m. Saturday starts to coincide with the Triple Crown races on May 2 (Kentucky Derby) and June 6 (Belmont Stakes). Other special 1:30 p.m. post times are on Memorial Day (May 25) and Labor Day (Sept. 7).

The Jim D. McDonald's Challenge Series opens April 25, with an overall purse of $145,000. The series will feature four handicaps at $10,000 each, with $5,000 in track records.

The $150,000 Derby, a Grade III race, will be Sept. 5. The Derby is usually one of the more popular events at the track all season.

Twin Super also returns. Bettors must pick the trifecta in the third race and the top four finishers, in order, in the fifth race to win the jackpot, which rolls over to the next racing day.

The Twin Super, in 1990, hit $661,811.80 before being won by three Chesterfield, Mo., men.

Intertrack racing from Chicago goes on daily at 1 p.m., except for Tuesdays.

Pace said Fairmount's purpose structure will "depend on business."

For more information, call Fairmount Park at 345-4300.

Bass master — George Pike won the Master Casters Bass Club March tournament held on Gillespie Lake. Pike also caught the biggest bass of the tournament. There were 22 members who participated. The club has meetings the first Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall, 3906 Nameoki Road in Granite City.

said Weaver, who also played in the MSCHA senior all-star game against the Warriorettes team and Derek Zirkelbach on March 1. "It's about two or three times as rough as high school hockey. We played 35 games and did pretty well."

The Junior Blues reached the semifinals of the Gold Cup playoffs in Detroit on March 15 and lost 5-2 to the Downriver Blades of Detroit, the eventual champions. The Junior Blues were the best defensive team in the league.

"We just ran out of gas at the end of the year," Weaver said. "We had a bunch of guys injured and didn't have a lot of depth."

After the Chicago Showcase, Weaver will have time to play in St. Louis over the summer as he weighs his options for the future. He can play with the Junior Blues until he turns 20. He is also the president of the Granite City High School Ice Hockey Club, which helps promote the Warrior program (players and cheerleaders).

"The quality of hockey has gone up tremendously around here since I started," he said. "It's just a matter of getting the ice time and playing. You see tons of kids at the Afton rink and there are a lot of them in Granite City now."

a three-car accident and suffered a neck injury.

"I can't explain what happened," Gardner said. "All I know is that the bone got jolted and I felt fine at the time. But my neck muscles started stiffening up the next day."

"I can't do anything without feeling pain because muscles are swollen and they're pressing on my nerve endings. The left side of my neck keeps stiffening up, especially if I assert myself."

Gardner, who has been practicing for three years, is going to therapy three times a week.

"Some days I feel fine, and on others I feel terrible," she said. "It's frustrating. I wish I didn't have to go through this. What happened wasn't my fault, but I was in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Her status is up in the air. There's a possibility she could miss the rest of the season.

"I'm not looking at it that way," Gardner said. "I'm keeping a positive attitude even though the doctor told me I'm out until further notice. But that could change. I hope it does."

"I can understand Yuuketha's disappointment," said Madison coach Gene Briggs. "She's an aggressive player who wants to be on the track. She's just itching to run again, but we're not going to pursue anything until she gets clearance from the doctor."

But Briggs feels everything will work out for the best.

"Why dwell on the negative?"

he said. "Life is filled with bumpy roads, and Yuuketha is finding that out for the first time. The only way to succeed is by overcoming those bumps."

When she hits those smooth spots, she'll excel that much more."

Gardner doesn't think a long layoff will affect her performance.

"Timing is my only concern," she said. "I worked hard to get myself ready for this season."

BAC has summer basketball camps

Belleville Area College is sponsoring a series of week-long summer basketball camps this year.

There will be five camps for boys and three for girls at the BAC gym, 2500 Carlyle Road in Belleville. The camps are open for boys in fifth through eighth grade and girls in third through eighth. Cost of the camp is $50 per participant, which includes a camp T-shirt, or $45 for groups of five or more. All group members must register together.

BAC coach and athletic director Jay Harrington will serve as camp director. He recently completed his 13th season as head coach of the basketball team, playing in France.

Harrington served as an assistant coach for the gold medal-winning North basketball team in the 1988 U.S. Olympic Festival. He also coaches a youth camp that includes members of the BAC coaching staff and several Dutchmen players.

"I love this situation of being able to work with the best basketball players of the future," said Harrington. "Our camp offers individual attention for developing basketball-related skills."

Instruction will be offered in all fundamentals.

The schedule of camps includes:

June 15-19: Boys grades 5-8, 9 a.m.-noon: girls grades 7-10, 1-4 p.m.

Business

Magna Group agrees to sale

Magna Group, Inc., has announced the signing of a definite agreement providing for the sale of all of the assets of Magna Group to Southern Missouri to Capital Bancorporation, Inc., of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The cash sale price for the bank is approximately 1.35 times the book value of $12.4 million at closing, net to exceed $17,384,000. The book value of the bank at Dec. 31, 1991, was approximately $12.4 million.

The net proceeds of the sale of the bank will be used to reduce indebtedness under Magna's bank credit facility. The closing of the sale of the bank, which is expected to occur by year end 1992, is subject to, among other things, the receipt of all requisite regulatory approvals.

This will be an interruption in service, and customers may continue to conduct their banking business as usual. Directors, management and staff of Magna remain in their present positions.

William S. Badgley, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Magna Group, Inc., said, "The sale of Magna Bank of Southern Missouri is in line with our stated objective to enhance Magna's capital position and focus our long-term business strategy in our current markets within the greater St.

Louis area, as well as central and Southern Illinois.

"The management and staff of Magna remain committed to providing high-quality service pending the completion of the sale. We believe that the customers and employees in Springfield, Ozark and Benton will benefit from association with Capital Bancorporation."

Magna Bank of Southern Missouri had total assets of $167 million at Dec. 31, 1991, and a subsidiary, Magna Group, Inc., a St. Louis-based multi-bank holding company with assets of $3.8 billion and 96 locations in Illinois and Missouri.

Bank assumes deposits of Olympic Federal

Robert A. Wetzel, president of The Bank of Edwardsville, has announced the assumption of deposits of the Alton branch of Olympic Federal Savings and Loan.

It is the second such purchase in the bank's 124-year history. In 1990, it acquired the Collinsville and Troy offices of another institution, Madison County Federal Savings and Loan.

In his announcement, Wetzel said: "Our desire is to improve service to our present customers in the Alton area, and to provide opportunities for serving the loyal customers of Olympic Federal." In making the announcement, Wetzel stated that customers of Olympic Federal will be able to conduct their business as usual.

The Alton branch will begin operating immediately as a facility of The Bank of Edwardsville. The new location brings the number of its banking centers in Madison County to five—the main office in Edwardsville, Montclair Center, Collinsville Center, Troy Center and the new Alton.

The Bank's Magic Touch ATM network is also the largest in the area with 12 machines at 10 locations.

The purchase is seen as a natural extension in the growing customer base of The Bank of Edwardsville. "We're known as a locally owned, locally oriented banking organization," Wetzel said.

According to Wetzel, the bank has attracted many customers from all over Madison County, especially over the past several years.

The Bank of Edwardsville currently employs 165 people in Collinsville, Edwardsville and Troy.

The assumption of the deposits of the Alton branch of Olympic Federal Savings and Loan was made in a bid accepted by the federal Resolution Trust Corporation.

Deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The bank of Edwardsville has more than $360 million in assets, according to Wetzel.

West receives mapping award

Margaret M. West of Granite City recently received a performance award from the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center.

This award goes to aerospace center employees for consistently exceeding the standard of performance for their position. It is awarded after an evaluation of the individual's performance during the previous 12-month period.

Located in St. Louis, the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center provides worldwide mapping support for the Department of Defense.

Its aerospace products are used in flights of all military aircraft, training in aircraft simulators, missile guidance systems and manned space missions.

Apprenticeship applications open

The employers and the Southern Illinois District Council of Carpenters Joint Apprenticeship Committee have a apprenticeship application that will be available for apprenticeship training in the carpentry trade, regardless of race, creed, color, national origin, or sex, April 6-10 and April 13-17.

All applicants must register at their area local union office during the above dates and must reside in the jurisdiction of the program.

Receipt of application is in no way a guarantee that work will be available for the applicant.

Service awards presented — Granite City postal workers Robert Braundmeier, left, and Robert Day, right, are congratulated by postal supervisor John Sertich, center, for their years of service. Braundmeier has been with the postal service for 25 years and Day for 30 years.

Committee finds savings for SEMC

It's no secret. Many businesses are tightening their belts and cutting costs. St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City credits its success in saving money to the Value Analysis Committee.

The committee is composed of more than 20 management team members and associates. They have been looking for ways to save money on products and procedures in their departments without reducing salaries.

Many of these cost-saving ideas were inspired by McFaul and Lyons Inc., a group specializing in educating hospitals on how to save money on non-salary costs.

The group spent six months last year evaluating procedures and products and interviewing SEMC associates (employees). The results are beginning to show up in various areas. In some cases, SEMC has increased savings by as much as three to four times the amount anticipated.

We've had statistics from McFaul and Lyons about the amount of savings we could insure by changing our paper product line," Seper said.

"We saved four times the amount they suggested. Meanwhile, we were able to express our concern for environmental waste. So the change to less paper benefited our pocketbook and Mother Nature."

Another area that noticed changes last year was Nursing Service. Maxine Johnson, administrative assistant in Nursing Service, said the procedure and product changes will be a continuing process.

"We have saved a significant amount in skin-care costs by implementing new mattresses and beds that require no overlays," Johnson said. "We also are working on the linen side of the committee to find a way to reduce the amount of linen we use."

Raczkiewicz said the value analysis committee will continue meeting monthly.
